

Sometimes, the route you take matters...

...especially when it comes to total hip replacement. By utilizing the direct-anterior surgical approach, our surgeons are able to get the exposure they need to your anatomy without cutting directly through the muscles which surround your hip. Combining this surgical approach with proven, state-of-the-art implants, which feature Oxinium technology, allows us to offer patients less post-surgical pain and a durable, nickel-free, long-life hip replacement.

If you are experiencing hip pain and would like to learn more about these and other advances in hip replacement surgery, call us today at 800-621-3218 to schedule a consultation.
